Overview

The following section of the exam is a lab. In this section, you will perform a set of tasks in a live environment. While most functionality will be available to you as it would be in a live environment, some functionality (e.g., copy and paste, ability to navigate to external websites) will not be possible by design.

Scoring is based on the outcome of performing the tasks stated in the lab. In other words, it doesn't matter how you accomplish the task, if you successfully perform it, you will earn credit for that task.

Labs are not timed separately, and this exam may have more than one lab that you must complete. You can use as much time as you would like to complete each lab. But, you should manage your time appropriately to ensure that you are able to complete the lab(s) and all other sections of the exam in the time provided. Please note that once you submit your work by clicking the Next button within a lab, you will NOT be able to return to the lab. To start the lab

You may start the lab by clicking the Next button.

While auditing a marketing department, the internal auditor discovered that the product life cycle model was used to structure the marketing mix.

The manager has asked the auditor for advice about increasing advertising of various products. During which stage of the life cycle would it be appropriate to advertise that the company's product is the lowest price and best quality of all competitors?

- A. Decline stage.
- B. Introduction stage.
- C. Growth stage.
- D. Maturity stage.

Answer: D

Explanation:

The maturity stage is the ideal time for advertising lower prices and superior quality because this is the period during a product's life when competition is greatest.
