NEW QUESTION: 3
You use Microsoft SQL Server to develop a database application.
You create a stored procedure named usp_calculategrowth. The stored procedure modifies rows and can result in several different exceptions.
You need to ensure that when the stored procedure is executed,
the following requirements are met:

Which six Transact-SQL statements should you use? (To answer, move the appropriate SQL statements from the list of statements to the answer area and arrange them in the correct order.)

Answer:
Explanation:

Explanation

Box 1: BEGIN TRY
A TRY...CATCH construct consists of two parts: a TRY block and a CATCH block. When an error condition is detected in a Transact-SQL statement that is inside a TRY block, control is passed to a CATCH block where the error can be processed.
A TRY blockstarts with the BEGIN TRY statement and ends with the END TRY statement.

Box 2: Exec usp_calculategrowth
Box 3: END TRY
Box 4: BEGIN CATCH
A TRY block must be followed immediately by a CATCH block. A CATCH block starts with the BEGIN CATCH statement andends with the END CATCH statement.
Box 5: EXEC xp_logevent ... xp_logevent logs a user-defined message in the SQL Server log file and in the Windows Event Viewer. xp_logevent can be used to send an alert without sending a message to the client.
Incorrect:
Not RAISERROR: RAISERROR generates an error message and initiates error processing for the session.
The message is returned as a server error message to the calling application or to an associated CATCH block of a TRY...CATCH construct. New applicationsshould use THROW instead.
Box 6: END CATCH
