You want to customize the presentation of data extracted from queries or tables that are created in Microsoft Office Access 2010. Which of the following database objects will you use to accomplish the task?

- A. Form
- B. Report
- C. Module
- D. Macro

Answer: A

Explanation:

In Microsoft Office Access 2010, a form is a database object that is mainly used for data input. It controls the execution of an application. A form can also customize the presentation of data extracted from queries or tables. A user can take a print of forms. Forms are designed to run a macro or a Microsoft Visual Basic procedure as a result of various events. Answer B is incorrect. In Microsoft Office Access 2010, a macro is a database object that defines the actions that are required for Access to perform as a result of a defined event. It is also used to open and execute queries, open tables, and print or view reports. A user can add simple conditions in macros to specify when actions are performed or skipped.

Answer A is incorrect. In Microsoft Office Access 2010, a module is a database object that includes custom procedures coded using Visual Basic. It provides a more discrete flow of actions and way to trap errors. A macro includes functions that can be called from anywhere in the Access application. It is directly linked with a form or a report as a result of events.

Answer D is incorrect. Report is used to display information from tables in a nicely formatted and easily accessible way. Information can be displayed on the computer screen or on paper. A report can contain information from multiple tables and queries, values calculated from information in the database, and formatting elements such as headers, footers, titles, and headings.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation

The ideal way is to create an IAM role which has the required permissions and then associate it with the Lambda function The AWS Documentation additionally mentions the following Each Lambda function has an IAM role (execution role) associated with it. You specify the IAM role when you create your Lambda function. Permissions you grant to this role determine what AWS Lambda can do when it assumes the role. There are two types of permissions that you grant to the IAM role:

If your Lambda function code accesses other AWS resources, such as to read an object from an S3 bucket or write logs to CloudWatch Logs, you need to grant permissions for relevant Amazon S3 and CloudWatch actions to the role.

If the event source is stream-based (Amazon Kinesis Data Streams and DynamoDB streams), AWS Lambda polls these streams on your behalf. AWS Lambda needs permissions to poll the stream and read new records on the stream so you need to grant the relevant permissions to this role.

Option A is invalid because the VPC endpoint allows access instances in a private subnet to access DynamoDB Option B is invalid because resources policies are present for resources such as S3 and KMS, but not AWS Lambda Option C is invalid because AWS Roles should be used and not IAM Users For more information on the Lambda permission model, please visit the below URL:

<https://docs.aws.amazon.com/lambda/latest/dg/intro-permission-model.html> The correct answer is: Create an IAM service role with permissions to write to the DynamoDB table.

Associate that role with the Lambda function.
