A. `new-mailbox -name "John" -alias john -provisional`

B. `new-mailbox -name "John" -alias john -provisional -verbose`

C. `new-mailbox -name "John" -alias john -provisional -verbose -quiet`

D. `new-mailbox -name "John" -alias john -provisional -quiet`

Answer: A

`new-mailbox`

new-mailbox [-name <name>] [-alias <alias>] [-provisional] [-verbose] [-quiet]

NEW QUESTION: 2

Refer to the exhibit.

The Layer 2 network uses VTP to manage its VLAN database. A network designer created all VLANs on the VTP server (switch 1) and it has been advertised through VTP to all other VTP clients (switches 2 through 4). Due to network growth, a network operator decided to add a new switch between switch 1 and switch 3. The network operator has been instructed to use a refurbished switch and use a VTP client. Which three of these has been instructed to use a refurbished switch and use a VTP client. Which three of these factors should the network operator consider to minimize the impact of adding a new switch? (Choose three.)

- A. Pay special attention to the VTP revision number, because the lower value takes the priority.
- B. Set at least the VTP domain name and password to get the new switch synchronized.
- C. Pay special attention to the VTP revision number, because the higher value takes the priority.
- D. An ISL trunk should be established between the new switch and switches 1 and 3, because VTP only runs over ISL.
- E. Configure all VLANs manually on the new switch in order to avoid connectivity issues.
- F. A trunk should be established between the new switch and switches 1 and 3 as VTP only runs over trunk links.

Answer: B,C,F

Explanation:

VTP should be used whenever we have more than 1 switch with multiple VLANs. It helps us save much time so configuring all VLANs manually is just a waste of time -> B is not correct. VLAN Trunking Protocol (VTP) can operate over 802.1q or ISL on FastEthernet link.+ On ISL: Switch(config-if)#switchport trunk encapsulation isl + On 802.1q: Switch(config-if)#switchport trunk encapsulation dot1q -> E is not correct Note: The 2940/2950 switches only support 802.1q encapsulation with the switchport mode trunk command. The switch will automatically use 802.1q encapsulation. Each time a VTP updates are sent out, the revision number is increased by 1. Any time a switch sees a higher revision number, it knows the information that it's receiving is more current, and it will overwrite the current database with that new information.
