NEW QUESTION: 1

Which two statements best describe the signalling requirements of virtual circuit setup of VPLS and exchange of reachability information (MAC addresses)?

- A. In Cisco VPLS the virtual circuit setup uses the same LDP signaling mechanism defined for point-to-point services. Using a directed LDP session, each provider edge advertises a virtual circuit label mapping that is used as part of the label stack imposed on the Ethernet frames by the ingress provider edge during packet forwarding.
- B. Cisco VPLS uses directed LDP as a signalling protocol to exchange reachability (MAC addresses) information to avoid maintenance of ARP cache.
- C. Cisco VPLS does not require the exchange of reachability (MAC addresses) information via a signaling protocol. This information is learned from the data plane using standard address learning, aging, and filtering mechanisms defined for Ethernet bridging.
- D. In Cisco VPLS the virtual circuit setup uses Multi-Protocol BGP as autodiscovery and signaling mechanism. Using BGP allows BPDUs to be propagated across VPLS in a scaleable fashion.
